

Nancy Suttle

I have lived most of my life as a Texan. My early years were spent in the Dallas and Houston area. I then graduated from Richardson High School and went on to North Texas University to get my bachelor and masters degree in education.

I have been in the teaching profession for twenty-one years and I am starting my seventeenth year as a PISD teacher. I have been involved in the school district not only as a teacher, but also as a lifetime member of the PTA volunteering in whatever capacity was needed in the schools my three children attended.

My husband and I live in Richardson. We have three children and two grandchildren. Our son lives in Midland, and our daughters live in the Richardson and Dallas area.

I spend much of my spare time with my husband taking care of our home and pets. I am also very involved in our church community.

Being with children on a daily basis is a joy and truly an inspiration to me. Just knowing that how and what I teach in my classroom will affect children's lives is very humbling. The many children who have come in to my life these many years have encouraged me to strive to do my best to encourage all of them to reach for the stars.
